

CityFit partners with Sodexo

Users of Sodexo's Andjoy app can now work out in all CityFit clubs. Next to MultiSport and OK System, this is the third sports benefit system accepted by the chain.

-The training area and fitness equipment available in our 23 clubs, with all the innovations we've introduced in recent months, allow us to open up to a new group of trainees. We are confident that we'll provide them with comfortable workout conditions, and with our professional staff and pioneering tech solutions we'll be able to actively support them at every touchpoint with the CityFit brand - says Łukasz Gądek, CityFit Board Member.

- Andjoy is a new solution from Sodexo, which offers its users a wide selection of activities that positively impact their wellbeing. It's up to the user to decide if they feel like ordering healthy catering to work, going to the cinema or exploring the fitness offer. Andjoy app users now have access to state-of-the-art facilities of the CityFit chain. By installing the easy-to-use mobile app each user immediately gains access to many venues and services, allowing them to choose their preferred forms of relaxation and care. - adds Maciej Bieńkowski, Andjoy Offer Director at Sodexo Benefits & Rewards Services Polska.

Andjoy users must first register online to gain access to CityFit clubs. To access the club, they must confirm entry in Sodexo's Andjoy app and generate a QR code in the CityFit application. From there, just scan the code in the reader at the entrance. This ensures round-the-clock access to all CityFit locations, including on Sundays and holidays and at night, when the clubs operate without staff supervision.

CityFit locations include shopping malls and office buildings in large and medium-size cities. The chain pays careful attention to interior design down to the smallest detail and delivers innovative solutions. Purchasing passes and managing subscriptions (e.g. booking a fitness class) takes place online. Modern workout space at each location is divided into themed zones (including cardio, free weights, resistance machines, warm-up cool-down, functional training, fitness room, cross-training and a relaxation zone, where you can heat up your meal and charge your phone). The clubs are equipped with cutting-edge workout machines (TechnoGym, Matrix, Escape Fitness) and professional sound system (Bose). Club members also have access to such amenities as filtered water fountains and vending machines with drinks and healthy snacks. All this to make your workout a true pleasure. You can start working out from the age of 16 – individually, with a personal trainer or in group fitness classes. The brand has also been working to expand its offer of extra services, offering e.g. an innovative system for booking classes and purchasing sessions with a personal trainer at www.trenerzy.cityfit.pl
